

I was born and raised in Painesville. I now live in Harpersfield and serve as the City of Painesville's Economic Development Administrator. With prior work experience at the Lake County Juvenile Court and as secretary for Painesville's Board of Zoning Appeals and Planning Commission, I bring a strong background in civic service. A lifelong history enthusiast, my passion was sparked by the Lake County Historical Society's display cases at Morley Library. I have a particular interest in local history, historical architecture, and preservation, and am eager to support the Society's mission.
